16. University of Notre Dame (Notre Dame, Indiana)

❖ University of Notre Dame; Hesburgh Libraries; Rare Books and Special Collections; Digital Collections

- Inquisition Collections

The Harley L. McDevitt Inquisition Collection consists of several hundred items, from printed volumes to unique manuscripts and images. The project is intended as a resource for students and researchers and thus contains thematic introductory essays to materials and digital facsimiles of documents.

- Medieval & Renaissance Manuscripts

The Digital Scriptorium contains photos and descriptions of some manuscripts from the collection; however, these descriptions repeat errors from earlier catalogs and introduce new errors, particularly in identification and attribution of texts, transcription, script identification, collation statements, dating, localization, and general descriptive information. The information found on this site should be used cautiously. Additionally, the shelfmarks given in both sources are no longer current.

- Prémontré Architectural Sites Collection

This project provides access to nearly 800 archival photographs gathered over the years by Rt. Rev. Astrik L. Gabriel, O. Praem., that document architectural sites sponsored by the Order of Prémontré. All of these photographs date prior to World War II and are important documents of the many sites that were damaged or destroyed during the War.

- Medieval Seals: A Collection of Facsimiles at the Medieval Institute

The Medieval Institute is proud to own a collection of over 200 medieval seals in facsimile. These images, mostly French, display the wide range of styles, sizes, and types of seals and seal owners in the Middle Ages. The seals in this exhibit are organized in three ways: according to their user, according to their geographic origin, and according to the insignia displayed on the seal.

- Access to the Middle Ages: Medieval Manuscripts in Facsimile

Based on a physical exhibit prepared by Dr. Marina Smyth (Librarian of the Medieval Institute) with the assistance of Catherine Kavanagh and Kathleen Tonry (graduate students in the Medieval Institute), this digital exhibit highlights the historical development of facsimile technology, as well as the central place of facsimiles in the study of the Middle Ages. It is also possible to search for Medieval Manuscript Facsimiles at Notre Dame.

- Catholic pamphlets

This collection consists of more than 5000 pamphlets by various Roman Catholic authors, including John F. Noll, Leo A. Pursley, Fulton J. Sheen, John A. O'Brien, and Daniel Lord. The majority were published in the United States from the early nineteenth century to the mid-twentieth century. A significant portion of the collection has been digitized, and can be found through the Notre Dame Catalog by searching for the phrase "catholic pamphlets."

❖ Manuscript Collections

- Diocese of Louisiana and the Floridas, 1576-1803

<http://archives.nd.edu/mano/>

The Diocese of Louisiana and the Floridas, established in 1793, took in all the territory from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Ocean and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico except the territory of the Diocese of Baltimore (i.e., territory belonging to the United States). Before 1793 Louisiana had been under the jurisdiction of the Diocese of Santiago de Cuba, before 1762 under the authority of the Diocese of Quebec.

The collection contains chiefly papers of bishops Luis Penalver y Cardenas; other correspondents include the Capuchin bishop, Cyril Antonio Sieni, better known as Bishop Cyril of Barcelona, who was the first resident bishop to have jurisdiction over Louisiana, 1784-1793; Rev. Thomas Hassett, administrator of Louisiana, 1801-1803; and Father Antonio de Sedella, auxiliary vicar and pastor of the parish of St. Louis, New Orleans, who was a leader in the power disputes that plagued the new diocese in the first years of the 19th century.

- William Tecumseh Sherman Family Papers, 1808-1891

<http://archives.nd.edu/Sherman/>

The William Tecumseh Sherman Family Papers, deposited in the University of Notre Dame Archives by Miss Eleanor Sherman Fitch, the granddaughter of General Sherman, prior to her death in 1959, consist of correspondence, clippings, photographs, scrapbooks, diaries, various legal papers and documents, cancelled checks, bank books, financial ledgers, drafts for and copies of articles, speeches and military orders, and explanatory notations. This material ranged from 1808 to 1959 and consisted of originals, photostats, microfilm, typewritten copies and handwritten copies.

This digital collection is based on the microfilm edition, sponsored by the National Historical Publications Commission, completed in 1967. Original items belonging to the period up to and including the year 1891 -- the year of General Sherman's death -- have been included.

- Catholic Peace Fellowship Bulletin, 1965-1978

<http://www.archives.nd.edu/CPF/>

Records of the Catholic Peace Fellowship, one of several Catholic peace collections in the University of Notre Dame Archives, include Manuscripts of talks and articles, organizational material for protest activities, newspaper and magazine clippings, press statements, photographs, and letters, with correspondence with Daniel and Philip Berrigan, Thomas Merton, James Forest, Dorothy Day, Thomas Cornell, George McGovern, and Robert F. Kennedy. The CPF published a bulletin, and we have issues dating from 1965 to 1978 available here.

17. University of San Diego

- The Religious of the Sacred Heart Postcard Collection

<http://sallypro.sandiego.edu/iii/cpro/CollectionViewPage.external?lang=eng&sp=1000152&suite=def>

These impressive postcards feature the schools, chapels, convents, and people associated with the Religious of the Sacred Heart, the order of nuns who founded the San Diego College for Women at USD. Also known as the Society of the Sacred Heart, this order is “committed to discovering and making God’s love visible in the heart of the world through the service of education.” The Society was established by St. Madeleine Sophie Barat in 1800 and grew to encompass an international network of schools and universities. These postcards document the growth of the Society from 1912 through the 1960s and include messages from students, friends, and relatives.

- Saint Thomas More Library Gift Collection

<http://sallypro.sandiego.edu/iii/cpro/CollectionViewPage.external?lang=eng&sp=1000145&suite=def>

A bound volume that contains the archival record of the donation to the San Diego College for Women Library of the contents of the independent Saint Thomas More Library that includes an account of the founding of the library; correspondence involving the donation to the University; the library’s appraisal; and other various documents. It also includes a bibliography of the entire collection, 90 pages of typescript. The collection is both rare and unique in that it reveals an obscure chapter in the history of Catholicism in Los Angeles. It also provides an interesting look at mid-twentieth century Catholic liberalism.

- San Diego College for Women Postcard Collection

<http://sallypro.sandiego.edu/iii/cpro/CollectionViewPage.external?lang=eng&sp=1000117&suite=def>

Colorful linen postcards were produced between 1930 and the late 1950s. These postcards were collected by the nuns of the Society of the Sacred Heart who established and administered the San Diego College for Women. In 1972, the College for Women merged with the College for Men to become USD’s College of Arts and Sciences. Cloistered and therefore unable to travel, this collection represents their window on the world outside the walls of the college.
